William Closson James

Cloth $39.95 • 0-88920-293-1

In ten lively and wide-ranging essays, James presents a powerful argument for a new way of looking at the religious in contemporary Canada – not in the traditional ways of being religious, but in activities and in locations previously thought to be “secular.” He discloses that the most vigorous engagements with religion in Canada at the end of the twentieth century are found outside the confines of formal religious life.
