

Workshop über die Begriffsentwicklung in der babylonischen Mathematik (3rd Workshop on Concept Development in Babylonian Mathematics)

Berlin, December 9–13, 1985

The following papers were presented and discussed:

- F. ROCHBERG-HALTON (Notre Dame University, South Bend, Indiana): Linear Methods in Babylonian Astronomy
- H. HUNGER (Universität Wien): The Edition of the Astronomical Series “mul-apin”
- H. J. NISSEN/P. DAMEROW/R. ENGLUND (Freie Universität Berlin/Max-Planck-Institut für Bildungsforschung Berlin): The Systems of Number Signs in the Archaic Texts from Uruk
- P. DAMEROW/R. ENGLUND (Max-Planck-Institut für Bildungsforschung Berlin/ Freie Universität Berlin): Protoelamite Systems of Number Signs
- R. ENGLUND (Freie Universität Berlin): Time Notations in Mesopotamia from the Archaic Texts from Uruk until the Third Dynasty from Ur (circa 3000–2000 B.C.)
- M. POWELL (Northern Illinois University, De Kalb, Illinois): The Development of Metrological Systems in Mesopotamia
- J. HØYRUP (Roskilde University Centre, Roskilde, Denmark): The Continuation of the Babylonian Mathematical Tradition in the Islamic Middle Ages
- J. FRIBERG/P. DAMEROW (Chalmers Tekniska Kögskola, Göteborgs Universitet, Göteborg, Sweden/Max-Planck-Institut für Bildungsforschung Berlin): Newly Edited Mathematical Texts from Ancient Babylonia and New Solutions for Old Problems in Babylonian Mathematical Texts
- J. HØYRUP/S. UNGURU/T. KRISCHER/A. SZABO (Roskilde University Centre, Roskilde, Denmark/University of Tel Aviv/Freie Universität Berlin/Universität Budapest): Babylonian Influence in Greek and Arabic Mathematics

The Workshop was organized by P. Damerow, Max-Planck-Institut für Bildungsforschung Berlin, Hans J. Nissen, Seminar für Vorderasiatische Altertumskunde der Freien Universität Berlin, and J. Renger, Seminar für Altorientalische Philologie der Freien Universität Berlin.

For further information please contact the organizers:

Freie Universität Berlin
Bitterstr. 8-12
D-1000 Berlin 33
Federal Republic of Germany