

Call for Submissions: The History of Education Society Prize

The History of Education Society awards a prize of $750 biennially to the author of an article judged to be the most distinguished scholarly essay in educational history—broadly defined to cover a wide range of educational and cultural institutions inside and outside the United States (this includes work on schools and universities, teachers, students, and families)—published in any journal over the previous two-year period.

The deadline for submissions is May 1, 2012.

Submissions should be emailed (in Microsoft Word) to anelson@education.wisc.edu.

Manuscripts should adhere to The Chicago Manual of Style, should be double-spaced in 12-point Times New Roman font, and should not exceed 35 pages in length, including notes. The author's name should appear only on the cover page. For other instructions, see the History of Education Quarterly author guidelines.

Committee Members: Adam Nelson (chair, University of Wisconsin-Madison), Hilary Moss (Amherst College), and Michelle Purdy (Michigan State University).

The Educational Legacy of Woodrow Wilson
From College to Nation
Edited by James Axtell

$45.00 | CLOTH

"The Educational Legacy of Woodrow Wilson succeeds in opening up an important and intriguing phase of Wilson's life in ways that have not been done before. The essays in this volume are creative, elegantly conceived and unusually thought-provoking."

—Thomas G. Dyer, University of Georgia

"James Axtell's new volume offers valuable insights into Wilson's role both at Princeton and more generally in American higher education, as well as his style of political leadership. This is an unusually cohesive series of essays that make a significant contribution to our understanding of Wilson."

—Kendrick Clements, University of South Carolina, author of Woodrow Wilson: World Statesman

the Power of Knowledge
Edited by Robert M. S.
McDonald

$40.00 | CLOTH | JEFFERSONIAN AMERICA

"Light and Liberty artfully brings together, in a single volume, fresh perspectives on many of Jefferson's Enlightenment ideas and experiences that nourished his belief that a free people, properly informed, could govern themselves."

—Jennings Wagoner, University of Virginia, author of Jefferson and Education

"This wide-ranging anthology provides fresh evidence of Jefferson's artistic and political genius. With essays on civilian and military education, public architecture, and art, the collection offers a new slant on this most brilliant of men."—Jean M. Yarbrough, Bowdoin College, editor of The Essential Jefferson
