

Buckland and Stueart Join College and Research Libraries

Michael K. Buckland and Robert D. Stueart have joined the editorial board of College and Research Libraries.

Buckland, an Englishman, has his Ph.D. from Sheffield Library School and is currently assistant director for technical services at Purdue University libraries. His specialties are library management, education for librarianship, and bibliometrics. He is co-editor of a forthcoming

Michael K. Buckland

Robert D. Stueart

reader in operations research.

Stueart is associate professor and assistant dean at the Graduate School of Librarianship, University of Denver. His Ph.D. dissertation, The Area Specialist Bibliographer: An Inquiry into His Role, was published last year by Scarecrow Press. He is very active in several ALA divisions, including ACRL. ■■

Participants in ACRL's Program

Russell Shank (far left) presided at ACRL's program meeting in Las Vegas. Speaking on the theme, "Libraries and Post-secondary Education: Change and Response," were (left to right) Professor Jai Singh, Washington University, St.

Louis, Germaine Gibian, Cleveland Public Library, John Valentine, Commission on Non-traditional Study, and Verne Stadtman, Carnegie Commission on Higher Education.