• Personal Bibliographic Software, Inc., has acquired Pro-Search and In-Search (its predecessor) from the Menlo Corporation of Santa Clara, California. Pro-Search is a specialized communications program for searching the online databases of Dialog and BRS information services. Pro-Search, together with other PBS products, allows users to access several mainframe bibliographic or textual databases, download the records, convert them into a single microcomputer format, and make them into punctuated, formatted bibliographies. These reformatted records are compatible with most word processors. Another PBS product, Pro-Cite, provides flexible data-entry workforms that allow users to create and maintain a database of records that can be printed according to the style sheet of any journal or association. For further information, contact Personal Bibliographic Software, P.O. Box 4250, Ann Arbor, MI 48106; (313) 996-1580.

• Raychem Corporation has introduced the TraceTek 100 Leak Sensing and Locating System, designed to detect and pinpoint water leaks in libraries, museums, art galleries, and archival systems. The TraceTek system consists of a water-sensing polymer cable connected to an electronic alarm module. As soon as the cable senses water, an alarm is sounded and the module simultaneously displays the distance in feet from the leak to the module. By referring to a system map, the user can quickly identify the precise location of the leak. Unlike point sensors, the cable provides continuous sensing at all points along its length. The system is priced at $3-$4 per foot of cable and $1500 per module. Contact Raychem Corporation, 300 Constitution Drive, Menlo Park, CA 94025; (415) 361-3333. ■■

PUBLICATIONS

• Academic Libraries on the Periphery: How Telecommunications Information Policy Is Determined in Universities, by Kenneth E. Flower (43 pages, April 1986), has been published as OMS Occasional Paper #11. This monograph looks at developments in 26 universities in the Spring of 1985 to identify patterns or models of telecommunications information (TI) planning and decision-making. Flower found that the libraries surveyed were not a sphere of authority in the formation of TI policy, and that most of them were in an academic affairs sphere of authority, least favored by administrations as a center for TI policy formation. Copies may be ordered for $15, checks payable to the ARL Office of Management Studies, from OMS/ARL, 1527 New Hampshire Ave., N.W., Washington, DC 20036. ISBN 0-918006-51-1.

• African Studies, edited by Ilse Sternberg and Patricia M. Larby (344 pages, 1986), has been published as British Library Occasional Paper #6. This volume contains papers read at a colloquium held in January 1985 and jointly sponsored by the British Library and the School of Oriental and African Studies, University of London. The papers describe the current state of African studies in Great Britain and Africa, the resources available to researchers, the currency of guides and indexes to those resources, the problems of publishing and distributing books in Africa, and possible areas of cooperation between international libraries for the provision of Africana. Contributors include ACRL members Ray Boylan, David Easterbrook, and David Stam. Copies may be ordered for $27 from Longwood Publishing Group, 51 Washington Street, Dover, NH 03820. ISBN 0-7123-0050-3.

• The Colorado State University Videotape Short Course Catalog (1986) lists videotaped courses available on demand for immediate application in business and industry. Programs include engineering, computers, quality, management, and education. • The Directory of Public Vocational Technical Schools and Institutes in the USA, edited by Marli Johnson (350 pages, 3d edition, 1986-87), provides information on individual course offerings in addition to directors' names, telephone numbers, addresses, duration of courses, and descriptions of individual state programs for vocational education. Copies are available for $65 from the Minnesota Scholarly Press, P.O. Box 224, Mankato, MN

We Asked 400 Experts To Define Physical Science.

They Did.

The Encyclopedia of Physical Science and Technology.

Matchless in quality and scope, this monumental 15-volume work provides commanding coverage of every major aspect of physical science and technology.

Over 400 original articles—written by eminent authors from education and industry—give clear, current, and comprehensive descriptions of every subject. The articles and their authors have been selected by a world-renowned executive advisory board made up of many of the major figures in the sciences and engineering disciplines, including recipients of the Nobel Prize, the National Medal of Science, and other awards.

Articles are arranged alphabetically for easy access. Each entry—approximately 20 pages long—begins with a detailed table of contents, a glossary of unusual terms, and a concise definition of the topic, followed by an in-depth presentation. Extensive cross references, illustrations and tables, and a bibliography are also included. Each article has passed a review by its author's peer group.

This unique source, the first to encompass all aspects of the physical sciences, is a complete technical library. Its vast treatment includes:

- 4.5 million words on 9600 double-column pages
- 5500 illustrations
- 1500 tables
- 4000 glossary entries
- 3300 bibliography entries
- 45,000-entry subject index in Volume 15.

Sample articles: Artificial Intelligence, Black Holes, Computer Graphics, Earthquake Prediction, Galactic Structure and Evolution, and Weather Modification.

The Encyclopedia of Physical Science and Technology— an unparalleled reference for today's scientist, engineer, and student.

• Energy Efficiency in Buildings: Progress and Promise, by Eric Hirst, et al. (328 pages, May 1986), documents the dramatic impact of energy conservation since 1973 on both residential and commercial buildings. The book identifies ways to save additional energy by taking full advantage of current technology and presents important research and program topics for future study. The book sells for $19.50 and is available from the American Council for an Energy-Efficient Economy, 1001 Connecticut Ave., N.W., Suite 535, Washington, DC 20036. ISBN 0-918-249-04-X. A related volume, Financing Energy Conservation, edited by Mike Weedall, et al. (205 pages, June 1986), is a set of case studies within various organizational structures. The authors discuss implementation issues relevant to designers and managers of any government program. Their stories are designed to help energy professionals carry out projects using financing arrangements in which payments for energy conserving goods and services are contingent upon their successful operation. The book costs $17.50 and is available from the same address. ISBN 0-918249-0-31.

• Management in Post-Mao China: An Insider's View, by Joseph Y. Battat (185 pages, April 1986), focuses on China's major modernization program, which has resulted in substantial economic and enterprise management policy shifts in every field. The cost is $49.95, from UMI Research Press, 300

• Microcomputer Software Policies in ARL Libraries, SPEC Kit #123 (114 pages, April 1986), presents the results of a survey to determine which research libraries are acquiring and circulating microcomputer software and what policy guidelines regulate this library function. Nearly all the responding libraries indicated they were acquiring microcomputer software for staff and administrative use, while 38% said they were circulating software to their users. The kit contains seven examples of acquisition and collection development policies, five examples of use and circulation policies, and two institution-wide committee reports. Individual SPEC kits are available for $20, checks payable to the ARL Office of Management Studies, from: OMS, 1527 New Hampshire Ave., N.W., Washington, DC 20036.

• Preparation of Archival Copies of Theses and Dissertations, by Jane Boyd and Don Etherington (24 pages, April 1986), is a guide for students, faculty members, and librarians on the proper preparation and care of theses and dissertations. New information is presented on paper quality, duplicating, binding, and the use of oversized materials. Special attention is devoted to new techniques such as form and reduction printouts, music and sound recordings, and computer-generated data. The recommendations presented here were developed by the ALA Resources and Technical

Five additional volumes in the series, covering nebulae, clusters, and galaxies, will be published in 1986-87. Copies of Volume 1 are $13.95 and may be ordered from Enslow Publishers, Bloy Street and Ramsay Avenue, Box 777, Hillside, NJ 07205. ISBN 0-89490-122-2. ■■

Deadlines: Orders for regular classified advertisements must reach the ACRL office on or before the second of the month preceding publication of the issue (e.g. September 2 for the October issue). Late job listings will be accepted on a space-available basis after the second of the month.

Rates: Classified advertisements are $5.00 per line for ACRL members, $6.25 for others. Late job notices are $12.00 per line for members, $14.00 for others. Organizations submitting ads will be charged according to their membership status.

Telephone: All telephone orders should be confirmed by a written order mailed to ACRL headquarters as soon as possible. Orders should be accompanied by a typewritten copy of the ad to be used in proofreading. An additional $10 will be charged for ads taken over the phone (except late job notices or display ads).

Guidelines: For ads which list an application deadline, that date must be no sooner than the 20th day of the month in which the notice appears (e.g., October 20 for the October issue). All job announcements should include a salary figure. Job announcements will be edited to exclude discriminatory references. Applicants should be aware that the terms faculty rank and status vary in meaning among institutions.

JOBLINE: Call (312) 944-6795 for late-breaking job ads for academic and research library positions. A pre-recorded summary of positions listed with the service is revised weekly; each Friday a new tape includes all ads received by 1:00 p.m. the previous day. Each listing submitted will be carried on the recording for two weeks. The charge for each two-week listing is $30 for ACRL members and $35 for non-members.

Fast Job Listing Service: A special newsletter for those actively seeking positions. This service lists job postings received at ACRL headquarters four weeks before they appear in C&RL News, as well as ads which, because of narrow deadlines, will not appear in C&RL News. The cost of a six-month subscription is $10 for ACRL members and $15 for non-members.
