ACRL public relations

The ACRL Public Relations in Academic Libraries Discussion Group will present a discussion entitled, "PR for PR: Justifying Your Public Relations Program," on Sunday, January 7, 1990, from 2:00 to 4:00 pm. Please consult your ALA Midwinter Program for the location. Robert C. Miller, director of libraries, University of Notre Dame, and Maureen Pastine, director of libraries, Southern Methodist University, will present differing perspectives on issues and discuss the challenges of marketing library public relations programs in the academic environment. Both speakers will be happy to entertain your questions, comments, and concerns following their presentations.

Midwinter discussion forum on locally mounted databases

On Sunday afternoon, January 7, from 2:00-4:00, the ACRL BIS Computer Concerns Committee, the RASD Catalog Use Committee, and the RASD MARS Direct Patron Access Committee will co-sponsor a Discussion Forum on The Supercatalog: Service Implications of Locally Mounted Databases.

Four experts in the field will present statements of their own experiences with locally mounted databases. Technical and software considerations, database selection, instructional issues, and the creation and maintenance of non-bibliographic databases will be addressed by Clifford Lynch (director of the University of California Division of Library Automation), Nancy Evans (data and information service manager, Carnegie Mellon University), Susan Varca (head of instruction and information services, Arizona State University), and Daniel Barr (head of the Information and Reference Department, Penrose Public Library, Pike's Peak Library District).

The Discussion Forum format was chosen for this meeting by the sponsoring committees in order to encourage a lively interchange of experiences, questions, and concerns among the participants and the attendees, and a substantial amount of time has been planned for open discussion. All participating committees hope to identify new areas of interest or concern for future ALA conference programs during this Forum, so the widest possible participation is hoped for.

Mark your Midwinter calendars with the date!

Comprehensive access to the British National Bibliography and to the holdings of the British Library

Chadwyck-Healey now offers two CD-ROM titles which simplify access to the most heavily used reference titles in numerous disciplines—The British Library General Catalogue of Printed Books to 1975 on CD-ROM and the British National Bibliography or BNB on CD-ROM.

The British Library General Catalogue on CD-ROM means 8.5 million records on three CD-ROMs. It means searching by subject, by place of publication, by publication year, by ancillary material, by corporate author, by Boolean logic. It means printing citations in seconds. It means downloading records for retrospective conversion. It means making the catalogue a usable tool—finally.

The BNB on CD-ROM contains over one million British bibliographic records, accessible through 26 search options.

It is published in two parts, the 1950-1985 backfile, and 1986 onwards. The BNB on CD-ROM puts the world's most authoritative English language bibliography at your disposal.

Acquisitions

● Colorado State University, Fort Collins, recently acquired records representing nearly a century of history of the development and activities of the Women's Athletic and Dance Departments, the Women's Athletic Association and the Women's Recreation Association. This new addition to the University Archives constitutes a potentially rich primary resource for the study of early women's physical education and for the broader subject of the contribution of women faculty to higher education, especially in the first half of the 20th century.

● Cornell University Library, Ithaca, New York, has received the Biblioteca Ayacucho from President Carlos Andres Perez of Venezuela. This massive series, designed to present modern editions of important literary and historical texts from throughout the Latin American region was inspired and sponsored by President Perez during his first term (1975-1980). On his recent visit to the Cornell campus to receive the Henry E. and Nancy Horton Bartels World Affairs Fellowship, Perez delivered the first 135 volumes of the series which is projected to double in size by 1992, the 500th anniversary of Christopher Columbus' initial voyage to America.

● Dallas Theological Seminary, Dallas, Texas, has received the archival materials of CAM International, a missionary agency headquartered in Dallas, Texas. Founded in 1890 by C. I. Scofield, then pastor of First Congregational Church in Dallas, as the Central American Mission, it became CAM International after extending its work to Mexico, Spain, and South America. The Mission has had a close association with Dallas Seminary, founded in 1924 by Lewis Sperry Chafer, who served as general secretary of the Mission from 1921-1924. The CAM International records include administrative correspondence, mission records, publications, minutes of Council and Board meetings, news and prayer letters, and miscellaneous materials. The Mission designated Dallas Seminary as the repository for its archives in October 1989. The collection consists at this time of 15 boxes of records.

● Kent State University Libraries, Ohio, have recently acquired the papers of Thomas Richard Wirth, a veteran of the New York Art scene of the past two decades, including correspondence with prominent artists, examples of "mail art," and ephemera such as art announcements and catalogs. Wirth arrived in New York in the early 1960s and soon became friends with artists, writers, and actors. Wirth participated in the mail art movement both as a recipient of work from such networks as the Ontological News Service and as an artist using the postal service. His collection includes the 1982 drawing, "Mi Californita," by his long-time friend Ira Joel Haber, and an altered photograph in Brian Buczak's "You Are Here" series. Also in the collection are letters from poets Michael Andre, David Rattray and Carol Berge, composer Stephen Sondheim, director Melvin Bernhardt, bookbinder Gerard Charriere, editor Joseph McCrindle, filmmaker Roger Jacoby, and artists William Anthony, Buster Cleveland, John Evans, Ray Johnson, Lowell Nesbitt, Carlo Pittore and May Wilson. Wirth, a native of Minnesota, died in 1987 at the age of 47.

● The University of California at Berkeley's East Asiatic Library has received a major collection of Chinese books through a bequest made by the late Elizabeth Huff, head of the library during its first 20 years, beginning in 1947. She left a scholar's working library of more than 5,000 volumes of Chinese literature, classics, philosophy, and history. In addition to reference works in Chinese,
