PROFILES

KEITH M. COTTAM, acting director of Vanderbilt University Library since 1982, has been named director of the University of Wyoming Libraries, Laramie, effective July 1. He replaces Walter F. Eggers, head of the Department of English, who has been acting director since August 1981. Cottam will direct the William Robertson Coe Library and the activities of the archivist and curator of Wyoming's American Heritage Center.

Keith M. Cottam

Cottam has been at Vanderbilt since 1977, where he has served as associate director and deputy of the Vanderbilt library system and assistant director for public services and employee relations with the Joint University Libraries, the defunct library cooperative enterprise that formerly served Vanderbilt, Peabody College, and Scarritt College.

He was also assistant director of libraries for the Undergraduate Library at the University of Tennessee-Knoxville (1972-1977), head of the Social Sciences Library at Brigham Young University (1967-1972), assistant social science librarian at Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville (1965-1967), and adult services librarian and librarian trainee with the Brooklyn Public Library (1963-1965). His MLS is from the Pratt Institute.

Cottam currently serves as chair of ACRL's Continuing Education Committee. He was also chair of the College and University Section of the Utah Library Association, and president (1979-1980) of the Tennessee Library Association.

Cottam is co-author of Writer's Research Handbook: A Guide to Sources (1977), and has written over 20 articles and reports in the fields of library science and higher education. In 1975 he was awarded a fellowship from the Council on Library Resources for a cooperative study with ARL/OMS on the role of managerial and technical specialists in academic and research libraries. In 1979-1980 he was a participant in the first class of the OMS Academic Library Consultant Training Program.

GEORGE V. HODOWANEC, director of libraries at Emporia State University, Kansas, has been named director of the university library and learning resources at the University of Akron, Ohio, effective September 1. He replaces Pauline Franks, who is retiring at the end of 1983.

Hodowanec has been at Emporia since 1975. He was director of the Educational Media laboratory and assistant professor in the Graduate School of Library Science at Drexel University from 1969 to 1974. Prior to that he served as chief librarian in the Cambria-Somerset Library System in Johnstown, Pennsylvania (1967-1969), director of the Carteret Public Library (1965-1967), cataloger at Temple University (1962-1963), and reference librarian at the Free Library of Philadelphia (1960-1962).

Active in ACRL, Hodowanec is a member of the Standards and Accreditation Committee and helped to develop the "Guidelines for Extended Campus Library Services" reviewed by that committee in 1981. He spoke on the history of guidelines for library services to extension students at the first National Conference on Extended Campus Services at Central Michigan University in October, 1982.

Hodowanec has written many articles for such professional journals as College & Research Li- braries, Library Acquisitions: Practice and Theory, and Collection Management. He currently serves on the editorial board of College & Research Libraries.

He chaired the Council of Deans and Directors of Libraries in Kansas from 1978 to 1980.

Hodowanec earned his bachelor's degree in 1958 from Temple University, an MLS in 1960 from Drexel University, an advanced certificate in librarianship in 1969 from the University of Pittsburgh, and a doctorate in communications and educational media from Temple in 1972.

EILEEN DUBIN has been appointed director of the library at William Rainey Harper College, Palatine, Illinois. Prior to coming to Harper, she held several positions at Northern Illinois University from 1968 to 1983, including acquisitions librarian, head of the Interlibrary Loan Office, and associate head of circulation. Before that, she was a reference librarian at Chicago Public Library from 1959 to 1965 and supervisor of the Curriculum Laboratory Library at the University of Chicago, 1956-1957.

Dubin has an MLS from Northern Illinois University. She is currently serving as an intern on the ACRL Continuing Education Committee and as chair of the Research Committee of ALA's Library Instruction Round Table (LIRT). In 1979-1982 she was chair of LIRT's National Programs Study Task Force, and was elected treasurer of the Round Table for 1980-1981.

Dubin is the author of Basic Library Skills: A Self-Paced Workbook (1979), and co-author of Library Skills Test (1980), as well as numerous articles in professional journals.

JOSEPH H. TREYZ, director of libraries at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, has been appointed special advisor to the university chancellor, effective May 1. Administration of the 14 campus libraries has temporarily been turned over to Nancy Marshall, associate director of libraries.

As special advisor to the chancellor, Treyz will focus on national assignments involving library networking and automated cataloging.

Treyz has been director of libraries since 1971, during which time he served on the ALA and CRL Councils, the Board of Directors of ARL and RTSD, and as president of the Universal Serials and Books Exchange and the Midwest Regional Library Network.

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

PATRICIA SENN BREIVIK, director of the Auraria Library and Media Center, University of Colorado at Denver, has been named a Fellow in Academic Administration for 1983-84 by the American Council on Education. The 18-year-old Fellows program offers individuals the opportunity to participate in academic administration and policy-making at their home or a host campus.

HENDRIK EDELMAN, Rutgers University librarian, received the 13th Distinguished Service Award of the College and University Section at the Spring Conference of the New Jersey Library Association. The award honors any librarian whose outstanding contributions have enriched the librarianship of higher education in New Jersey.

DOUGLAS FERGUSON, head of the System Office at Stanford University Library, has been named Member of the Year by the California Academic and Research Librarians, an ACRL chapter. The honor was conferred for Ferguson's successful activities as 1982 program chair, which included twelve successful programs offered by the CARL Northern Section on topics ranging from the online catalog to professional responsibilities of academic librarians. The award was presented at the December CARL meeting which took place at the California Library Association meeting in Los Angeles.

BERNARD M. FRY, professor in the Indiana University School of Library and Information Science, has been selected as the recipient of the 1983 James Bennett Child Award. The award is given annually by the Government Documents Round Table of the American Library Association to that individual who has made the greatest contribution to documents librarianship. Presentation of the award will be made at the annual meeting of GO-DORT at ALA Annual Conference in Los Angeles.

MARY JO LYNCH, director of ALA's Office for Research, has been named visiting scholar in OCLC's Office of Research. Lynch will study present and potential management information systems in libraries and how OCLC might support them.

NANCY MARSHALL, associate director for public services at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, was elected to a 6-year term on the Board of Trustees of OCLC in December.

LORRAINE MATHIES has been named librarian emeritus by UCLA president David S. Saxon. Mathies, head of the Education and Psychology Library, is only the third librarian at the university to receive the honor. In May she also received the Distinguished Leadership Award from the Doctoral Alumni Association of the Graduate School of Education.

The STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK has honored five of its librarians with the Chancellor's Award for Excellence in Librarianship.
