The Raven

Eagerly I wished the morrow; vainly I had sought to borrow from my books surcease of sorrow—sorrow for the lost Lenore,
for the rare and radiant maiden whom the angels
name Lenore,

Nameless here for evermore.
And the silken sad uncertain rustling of each purple
curtain
thrilled me, filled me with fantastic terrors never felt before;
So that now, to still the beating of my heart, I stood
repeating:
"Tis some visitor entreating entrance at my chamber door—
Some late visitor entreating entrance at my chamber door;

Presently my soul grew stronger;

Introducing the Minolta DPCS 3000

If Poe had to copy his original manuscript of “The Raven” the DPCS 3000 would have him waxing poetic. Because it’s the face-up digital publication copying system that copies books gently, simply, quickly.

Thanks to a unique face-up copying design, there’s virtually no spine bending or brittle page breaking. Double-page spreads copy without curves or shadowed gutters. Photos and artwork reproduce to critical acclaim. Even 3-D objects are reproduced with precision.

Digital imaging and laser technology make this a high speed operation. Plus, the DPCS 3000 will soon write a new chapter with image storage, fax, e-mail and Internet service capabilities to meet your expanding needs.

Did we tell you about our service and expertise in copying and digital imaging?

We don’t want to give the whole story away. Call 1-800-9-MINOLTA for more information about the most novel idea in copying.
