

1972). The Hague: FID, 1974. 586p. $20.00. (FID 506)

The proceedings contain the full texts of the fifty-one papers presented at the three sections of the symposium: (1) sources of international documentation, (2) acquisition and organization of international documentation, and (3) utilization of international documentation. The proceedings furthermore contain the sixty-four recommendations, the reports of the rapporteurs of the three main sections, introductory reports, an author index, and a list of the participants with full addresses.

FID Annual Report—1973. The Hague: FID, 1974. 12p. free.

The annual report for 1973 contains a summary statement, the usual detailed report including the current program, and lists of national members, regional commissions, Council and Executive Committee members, and committees' secretariats.

FID Publications Catalogue—1974. The Hague: FID, 1974. 48p. free.

Lists more than 500 FID publications in following subject areas: information science, documentation, reproduction, mechanization, linguistics, education and training, classification, information resources, and the Universal Decimal Classification—reports and schedules.

The publications are available from: The International Federation for Documentation, 7 Hofweg, The Hague, Netherlands.

• Volume 1, number 1 of the CaDocS Manual of U.S. Government Series, Pseudoserries and Subscriptions has recently been released. Edited by Maria Broadbent, manager of Capital Documents Service, and her husband, Marv Broadbent, who is head acquisitions librarian for the Organization of American States, the CaDocS Manual brings together under agency author the saleable publications of the U.S. government. More important is the indexing of these series four times per year on a cumulative basis. The cumulation is promised to extend for a period of five years. Since the issues are cumulative many small libraries might wish to purchase only one number per year. Single numbers are $3.00, annual subscriptions $10.50. Volume 1, number 1, however, is free from the publishers, Capital Documents Service, 4410 Josephine Ave., Beltsville, MD 20705. ■■

News From the Sections

ART SECTION

The ACRL Art Section meetings were held in conjunction with ALA New York Conference meetings, beginning July 7, 1974. The conference opened with a business meeting on Sunday, which included reports on the current ACRL meeting, preliminary plans for the 1975 San Francisco Conference, and a description of the Bicentennial Bibliography project of the Archives of American Art by Bernard Karpel, editor and coordinator of the project.

On Monday the Art Section toured the Cloisters Museum and participated in an informal session on library resources with Kate Chipman, librarian at the Cloisters Museum. Tuesday's activities included a tour and lecture at the auction house of Parke-Bernet, followed by an examination of the Parke-Bernet library. Evening activities included an open house hosted by ARLIS/NY at the American Crafts Council, followed by informal dinner arrangements and museum touring. Wednesday included the evening reception for ACRL members at the Elmer Holmes Bobst Library.

The executive committee met for breakfast Thursday morning, at which time plans were discussed for the 1975 San Francisco meeting. From ten o'clock until twelve noon the Art Section met at the Frick Collection with the curatorial staff, followed by a lecture on the collection and its development. During the remaining time Art Section members viewed the collection. The overall turnout for meetings was good, and the tours, arranged by Ms. Barbara Sevy, were particularly appreciated by the membership.

COLLEGE LIBRARIES SECTION

At the Las Vegas Conference, the executive board of the College Libraries Section, ACRL, voted that an ad hoc committee be established "to reexamine the Section's position vis-a-vis ACRL and ALA [and] to clearly state goals and objectives recognizing the fundamentally unique needs of college libraries as distinct from junior college and university libraries. . . ."

Since that time the committee has held meetings at Midwinter 1974 and at the Annual Conference in July 1974. Liaison has been set up with the ACRL subcommittee on goals, and guidance has been sought from a variety of individuals including past officers of CLS.

Committee consensus has emerged that discussions of the group should now be summarized for the attention of CLS membership. Accordingly the following Draft Statement of CLS

Goals is published. The committee requests that CLS members respond with detailed criticisms and suggestions, addressed to the committee chairman. These responses will guide committee discussions at Midwinter 1975. A final report is scheduled for the Annual Conference in 1975.

DRAFT STATEMENT OF CLS GOALS

The goals of CLS shall be:

- a. To provide a forum for discussion of problems concerning undergraduate library service primarily. These are problems which are either unique to the college library or, where more generalized, are of immediate and pressing concern to the college library.
- b. In providing this forum, to make certain that the major concerns of all types of college library receive attention, particularly those which exist in relative geographical and professional isolation from major academic centers.
- c. To arrange programs, meetings and other activities which will encourage direct membership participation.

The committee suggests that programs and activities centering around themes such as the following would make a useful beginning toward realization of goals such as the above:

The effectiveness of present "standards" or "guidelines" for the maintenance of adequate levels of service in the college library. The extent to which "standards" make a differ- ence in problem solving in the college library.

Regional cooperatives and the college library, including the concept of community use of the college library, emphasizing "best practice," management problems, fiscal implications, public relations, and similar considerations.

Data retrieval in the college library with consideration of the potential for joint use or sharing of terminals on a local or regional basis among cooperating college libraries.

The place of the nonprint media in the college library: the "learning resources center" and the college library.

Library instruction for the undergraduate, its place in the teaching-learning process and the contribution of the professional staff of the college library in the provision of this instruction.

The enlargement of graduate instruction, continuing education programs, and service to the community programs on the college campus and their impact on college library services.

Continuing education for the college library staff. The potential contribution of consortia, library schools, and other agencies in this area.

CLS members are urged to send written reactions to the foregoing in care of the committee chairman at the following address: Charles L. Higgins, Director of Learning Resources, Nazareth College of Rochester, 4245 East Avenue, Rochester, NY 14610. ■■

Bylaws of the College Libraries Section of ACRL

Approved by the membership of the ACRL College Libraries Section, on July 9, 1974.

Article I. Name

The name of this organization is the College Libraries Section of the Association of College and Research Libraries of the American Library Association.

Article II. Object

The object of the Section shall be to advance college librarianship, college library service, and the development of college libraries.

Article III. Membership

Any member of the Association of College and Research Libraries may elect membership in this Section.

Article IV. Officers

The officers of the Section shall be a chairman, a vice-chairman who is chairman-elect, the immediate past chairman, and a secretary. The chairman shall serve for one year. The chairman-elect shall serve for one year as vice-chairman at the expiration of which term, or upon the occurrence of an earlier vacancy in the office of chairman, he shall succeed to the office of chairman. The immediate past chairman serves for one year as an officer and the secretary serves for one year.

Article V. Executive Board

Sec. 1. Composition. The Executive Board shall consist of five members: The chairman, the secretary, the incoming chairman, the immediate past chairman, and the past secretary. The Executive Secretary of the Association of College and Research Libraries shall be an ex-officio member.

Sec. 2. Meetings. Regular meetings of the Executive Board are to be held at times and places of the annual and midwinter meetings of the