

•The Tinker Guide to Latin American and Caribbean Policy and Scholarly Resources in Metropolitan New York, edited by Ronald G. Hellman and Beth Kempler Pfannl (217 pages, January 1989), is a list of organizations and collections in the New York area that constitute sources of information and assistance to those interested in Latin American and Caribbean studies. Information is provided on academic institutions, associations and research centers, chambers of commerce and government offices, consulates, libraries, UN agencies, bookstores, publications, and City University scholars of Latin American and Caribbean affairs. Copies may be ordered for $27.95 from the Bildner Center for Western European Studies, CUNY Graduate Center, 33 W. 42d St., New York, NY 10036-8099. ISBN 0-929972-00-7.

•The Women's History Library Collections are still available on microfilm from the Women's History Research Center, even though the Center will probably cease operating after September 1989. The three sets are the only comprehensive records of the changing status of women's lives from 1968 to 1974. Two of the sets, Women and Law ($1,738) and Women and Health/Mental Health ($604), contain over 650 subject files of published and unpublished pamphlets and news articles. Each file reflects a topic as it evolved in the women's movement. The third set, Herstory ($3,790), contains 21,000 issues of 821 women's newsletters, journals and newspapers published by and about women's liberation, civic, professional, religious and peace groups. Libraries ordering all three sets receive the Health set free of charge. Sample reels and guides are available from the publisher: Women's History Research Center, 2325 Oak Street, Berkeley, CA 94708; (415) 548-1770.

■ ■

CALENDAR

June

9-11—Academic libraries: "The Dynamics of Small to Medium-Sized Academic Libraries," a conference sponsored by the Emporia State University School of Library and Information Management, will be held at the ESU campus. Topics to be discussed include expanding connections to curriculum, effecting positive change, addressing challenges within fiscal constraints, and internationalizing the library. Speakers include Maureen Pastine, Washington State University, and Betsy Baker, Northwestern University. Registration fee: $50 for ESU alumni; $60 for all others. Contact: Allison Level, School of Library and Information Management, 1200 Commercial, Emporia, KS 66801; (316) 343-5203.

13-16—Christian librarians: The 33rd annual conference of the Association of Christian Librarians, "Librarians as Pioneers: Publishing, Producing, and Preserving," will be held at Multnomah School of the Bible in Portland, Oregon. Featured speakers will include Joseph C. Aldrich of Multnomah, Earl D. Radmacher of Western Conservative Baptist Seminary, and David C. Needham of Multnomah. Plans include more than thirty professional workshops, roundtables, and special interest sessions, as well as tours of the Portland area. Contact: Lynn Brock, Executive Secretary, Association of Christian Librarians, Box 4, Cedarville, OH 45314; (513) 766-2211.

August

17-18—CD-ROM: The University of California at Berkeley School of Library and Information Studies and the UC Berkeley Extension will co-sponsor a conference called "CD-ROM in the Library: Today and Tomorrow" to be held on the UC Berkeley campus. Speakers will discuss current CD-ROM options for library technical services, reference, and public access catalogs, as well as where CD-ROM is going and what the future is likely to bring. Contact: Library and Information Studies, UC Berkeley Extension, 2223 Fulton St., Berkeley, CA 94720; (415) 643-6903.

26-27—Serving immigrants: Librarians, educators, and representatives of immigrant and refugee groups will explore school library service to immigrant children in a conference titled "New Faces in the Library" to be held at the University of California Extension Center in San Francisco. The conference will include presentations, panels, and workshops. Contact: Library and Information Studies, UC Berkeley Extension, 2223 Fulton St., Berkeley, CA 94720; (415) 643-6903.

■ ■