BUILD THE ASIAN LANGUAGE COLLECTIONS YOUR USERS WANT WITH THE OCLC ASIALINK AND TECHPRO SERVICES

Developing Asian language collections is easy with the OCLC AsiaLink service. Staffed by Asian language experts, AsiaLink offers everything you need to establish, maintain and expand Chinese, Japanese, Korean and Vietnamese (CJKV) collections in your library.

- The AsiaLink Collection Development service lets you determine the specific subject matter and format of materials that AsiaLink staff will acquire on your behalf, based on your users' needs. You'll also get significant savings on the cost of books, including higher-than-average discounts from book vendors.
- AsiaLink Sets get you off to a quick start or allow you to expand existing collections with economical sets of books in groups of 25, 50 or 100 pre-selected fiction and nonfiction titles. Both juvenile and adult sets are available. Title lists are updated annually, so it's easy to add to your collection regularly.
- Full-level OCLC cataloging is provided for all titles and materials may be physically processed upon request.

For help cataloging titles not acquired through AsiaLink, turn to the OCLC TechPro service. TechPro provides expert cataloging for materials in all bibliographic formats and in many languages (including CJKV), plus optional physical processing. TechPro can help you quickly and efficiently eliminate backlogs and keep your cataloging up-to-date, giving your users prompt access to materials.

For more information on AsiaLink or TechPro, contact Marcia Stout at OCLC.
