JAMES RETTIG, head reference librarian at the University of Illinois at Chicago since 1983, has been appointed assistant university librarian for reference and information services at the College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Virginia, effective in January.

Prior to serving at UIC, Rettig was reference librarian at the University of Dayton (1978-1983), and head reference librarian (1977-1978) and assistant reference librarian (1976-1977) at Murray State University in Kentucky. He holds bachelor's and master's degrees in English from Marquette University and an MLS from the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

Rettig has edited numerous publications and has written for ALA publications including Reference Quarterly and the ALA Yearbook of Library and Information Services. He has been author and editor of the "Current Reference Books" column in the Wilson Library Bulletin since 1981 and is editor of Bibliographic Guides in the Humanities, published by Libraries Unlimited, Inc.

A member of the Government Documents Round Table, the Library Administration and Management Association, and the Reference and Adult Services Division as well as ACRL, Rettig has served on numerous committees since 1982. He has been ACRL Publications Committee intern (1983-1984) and served as the ACRL representative to the Freedom to Read Foundation during 1983-1985. Since 1984 Rettig has served as chair of the C&RL News Editorial Board, and is currently on the Reference Services Review Editorial Board after serving as its associate editor since 1980.

A member of Beta Phi Mu, Rettig has presented papers at several regional and national conferences.

BARTLEY M. HARLOE has been appointed head of collection management at New Mexico State University, Las Cruces, effective September 1, 1987.

Harloe received bachelor's and master's degrees in political theory from San Francisco State University and an MLS from the University of Pittsburgh. He served most recently as acting dean of libraries at the University of the Pacific, where he was previously chair of the Information Services Department and head of collection development.

Active in ACRL, Harloe is also a member of the Resources and Technical Services Division and the Reference and Adult Services Division. Within California he has served as chair of a Distinguished Research Collections Task Force which, under the auspices of the Association of Independent California Colleges and Universities, is now publishing a directory of the outstanding research collections available in the state's private academic libraries.

In addition to serving as a consultant on collection development, Harloe has published articles and book reviews on academic libraries.

RICHARD C. POLLARD, assistant director for technical services at the University of Chicago since 1981, has been named university librarian at California State University, Fullerton.

From 1966 to 1977 Pollard held several positions in the Cataloging Department at Stanford University, and from 1977 to 1981 was associate director for technical services at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville. A native of California, he holds bachelor's and master's degrees from Stanford and an MLS from the University of Southern California.
