

John Carlo Bertot, associate director of the Information Use Management and Policy Institute at Florida State University, and Wayne A. Wiegand, F. William Summers professor of library and information studies and professor of American Studies at Florida State University, have been named coeditors of Library Quarterly (LQ). While LQ will continue to publish research that reflects the user in the life of the library perspective as well as research from the library in the life of the user, the editors are interested in cutting-edge articles from humanities and social science research that link scholarship on reading with the library as a reading institution, explore the library as a cultural space, evaluate library networked services and resources, examine collection development in networked environments, or address information architecture and telecommunication policy.

Norman Horrocks, professor emeritus, School of Library and Information Studies at Dalhousie University, editorial consultant for Scarecrow Press, and contributing editor for Library Journal, has been selected by the International Awards Committee of the Professor Kaula Endowment for Library and Information Science to be the 22nd recipient of the International Kaula Gold Medal and Citation. This award, established in India in 1975, honors a person who has distinguished himself or herself as a librarian, documentalist, or teacher of library and information science.

Sally Sims Stokes has been named a White House History Fellow for 2004. She will be developing a Web-based program emphasizing the use and interpretation of primary sources in studying the lives of White House workers. The fellowship program is sponsored jointly by the White House Historical Association and the Organization of American Historians. Stokes's experience blending historical research, material culture, and librarianship spans more than 22 years, 16 of which she spent as curator of the National Trust for Historic Preservation Library Collection at the University of Maryland (UM). Prior to joining UM she was user education librarian at Ohio State. Stokes has received three National Endowment for the Humanities fellowships and, in 2001, was principal scholar to an exhibit on the Los Angeles architectural firm of Allison & Allison, funded by the California Council for the Humanities. Her recent publications include a second, revised edition in 2001 of Charles Peterson's 1970 Notes on Hampton Mansion and a forthcoming article in the Summer 2004 Quarterly of the Children's Literature Association entitled Noel Streatfeild's Secret Gardens.
