Jacque Dessino, electronic services librarian at Tidewater Community College, head-quartered in Norfolk, Virginia, has received the institution's 2005 special achievement award for faculty. She was instrumental in the initiation of virtual reference service for the Virginia Community College System's libraries.

Hannelore B. Rader, dean of university libraries, was honored on April 13 with the "Distinguished Faculty Service Award" from the University of Louisville. The award recognized her many national and international accomplishments in the library profession as a representative of the university. This is the first time a librarian and a dean has been honored with this award. On April 5, Rader was the ALA representative at the UNESCO meeting in Paris. The meeting continued the thematic debate on "information literacy" and included ten representatives from several countries who spoke about information literacy in their countries. She spoke about "Information Literacy in Workforce Development." UNESCO will continue this debate in Tunis in the fall. Rader is an ACRL past-president (1986–87) and was named ACRL's Academic/Research Librarian of the Year in 1999.

John V. Richardson Jr., professor of information studies at University of California-Los Angeles, has been awarded a Fulbright Senior Specialist Scholarship in library science to Vladivostok State University of Economics and Service (VSUES) in Vladivostok, Russia. Richardson spent nearly one month in the Russian Far East where he offered workshops, taught a short course on virtual reference services, and collaborated with VSUES faculty on the development of their new information studies program. Richardson's latest book related to Russia is a bilingual dictionary of English and Russian LIS terminology and represents a multiyear project (see purl.org/net/LIS_Terms for an online version; the book will be published by Professiya Publishing House in St. Petersburg, Russia).

Ed. note: To ensure that your personnel news is considered for publication, write to Ann-Christe Galloway, production editor, C&RL News, 50 E. Huron St., Chicago, IL 60611-2795; e-mail: agalloway@ ala.org; fax: (312) 280-2520.

John M. Unsworth, dean of the Graduate School of Library and Information Science at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, is the 2005 recipient of the Richard W. Lyman Award, presented by the National Humanities Center to recognize scholars who have advanced humanistic scholarship and teaching through the innovative use of information technology. Unsworth produced A Companion to Digital Humanities, which provides the first comprehensive overview of humanities computing, and Electronic Textual Editing, which presents practical advice from editors of electronic editions along with guidelines from the Text Encoding Initiative and guidelines for scholarly editing from the Modern Language Association. Unsworth currently serves as chair of the Commission on Cyberinfrastructure for

Advertisers
AARP	465
ACM American Chemical Society	429 cover 2
Annual Reviews	430
ARL Blackwell's Book Services	438 451
Choice	433
EBSCO	cover 4
Iimage Retrieval International City/County	cover 3 445
Management Association	116
Oxford University Press	446 460
Springer	478
Thomson West	489

the Humanities and Social Sciences. He is also one of the principal investigators for the National Digital Information Infrastructure Preservation Program.

Appointments

Christine de Cantanzaro has joined the Georgia Institute of Technology Archives as access archivist.

Mark Dehmlow is the University of Notre Dame's Hesburgh Libraries first electronic services librarian.

Scott Martin is now biological sciences librarian and coordinator for digital initiatives in the sciences at the University of Michigan.

Ola C. Riley is now biomedical services librarian for the Undergraduate Medical Academy at Prairie View A&M University.

Jennifer O'Brien Roper has been appointed metadata/electronic resources librarian at the University of Maryland Libraries in College Park.

Anna Van Scoyoc has been appointed instructional services librarian at Emory University.

Kent Woynowski has joined the Georgia Institute of Technology Archives as digital collections archivist.

Retirements

Carol Johnson retired from the University of Minnesota (UM) Libraries on January 30, 2004, after a career of nearly 39 years. Johnson held various positions, including psychology reference librarian at the University of Iowa, head of the Periodicals Division at the University of Minnesota, and head social sciences cataloger, as well as rare book cataloger at UM. She also served as acting assistant curator of Special Collections and Rare Books at UM from 1996 to 1998. She has been active in the Academic and Research Libraries Division of the Minnesota Library Association, ALA, Associates of the James Ford Bell Library, Minnesota Center for Book Arts, and the Ampersand Club.

Richard J. Kelly retired from the University of Minnesota (UM) Libraries on June 30, 2004, after 36 years of service. As bibliographer, Kelly was responsible for collection development for theater, dance, cinema, linguistics, cultural studies, comparative literature, journalism and mass communications, communication studies, and philosophy. Kelly has been a longtime member of ALA, ACRL, and RUSA. He is an internationally recognized expert on the life and work of the poet John Berryman and is most well known for the books and articles he has written on Berryman's work. In retirement, Kelly continues to work with UM's archival collection of Berryman's papers.

Loralee (Lalee) Kerr retired from the University of Minnesota (UM) Libraries December 30, 2004. After two years as a reference librarian at the U.S. Air Force Academy Library, Kerr began her career at UM in 1963. She held positions as a reference librarian in the Education Library, a serials cataloger, head of the Wilson Library Periodicals Division, and as a reference librarian in Wilson Library. Beginning in 1990, she served as a head of the Entomology, Fisheries, and Wildlife Library. Kerr served the libraries as a co-convener of the Library Faculty Personnel Committee and a university senator. She was active with ALA, National Resources Information Council, Minnesota Chapter of American Association of University Professors, Minnesota Library Association, and the Special Libraries Association.

Deaths

Robert Jevne, bibliographer for English and American literature at the University of Minnesota Libraries-Twin Cities (1963–93)

C&RL News June 2005 488

and then volunteer in the preservation union (1983–2004), died on December 28, 2004. Jevne joined the university libraries in acquisitions in 1963, with responsibility first for gifts, then for books published in England, and then for English and American Literature. He retired in 1983 and immediately began work as a volunteer in the book preservation unit, working faithfully every day until 2004.

Patricia Turner, 76, retired University of Minnesota (UM) reference librarian, has died. Before retiring from UM in 1994 after 20 years of service, Turner was responsible for building UM's collection of political science and French works. Turner wrote two discographies (Afro-American singers: An index and preliminary discography of opera, choral music and song and A dictionary of Afro-American performers: 78 RPM and cylinder recordings of opera, choral music and songs c. 1900–1949), a number of books (including dictionaries and bibliographies), and articles about Western European history and music. 72

("The MAPIT . . ." cont. from page 453) all researchers, such as accessing resources from home and problems with PDF files (e.g., printing, viewing).

Summary

While it does have obvious limitations, the MAPIT and GETIT approach typically generates positive feedback from students and faculty alike. It seems to hit a middle ground, and almost everyone seems to learn something they didn't know before class. At the very least, this approach gives students a framework upon which they can build as their research needs develop. Still, as it's impossible to address every issue and answer every question in the time allotted, it's important to close every lecture by noting that a librarian is always the best resource for additional assistance whenever it's needed.

NEW! Stretch students' minds and your library's budget with Campus Research™

Reference librarians can depend on Campus Research to provide college and university students with full-text online information for almost every subject. Campus Research is designed for students, with an easy-to-use interface, plain-English searching, and 24/7 access in or out of the library. And it's priced to fit within your library's budget.

Broad, deep coverage includes:

- 30+ topical categories of news
- Newspapers, news wires, magazines and business and industry data
- Legal encyclopedias, law reviews and experts' treatises
- Federal and state statutes, regulations and court decisions.

CAMPUS research

Learn more today. Call 1-800-762-5272

west the moon com

6 2005 West, a Thomson business 1-312014/5-06

June 2005 489 C&RL News