ABSTRACT

The main clients of every Higher Educational Institution (HEI) are the students. Their satisfaction is the utmost concern of a HEI. Thus, this paper assessed the student services of Saint Columban College using the 42 graduating students of the College of Teacher Education, Arts and Sciences (CTEAS) during the first semester of the Academic Year 2018-2019. The different student services that were assessed are the following: Admissions, Student Orientation, Guidance Program and Services, Campus Ministry, Student Assistance Program, Co-curricular Programs and Activities, Alumni, and Registrar's Services. This used a survey questionnaire adapted from the Philippine Accrediting Association of Schools, Colleges, and Universities (PAASCU) manual. This made use of weighted Mean, to sum up, the responses of the research participants. Based on the findings, Admission, Student Orientation, Campus Ministry, co-curricular activities, and Alumni got excellent rating while Guidance Programs and services, Student Assistance program and Registrar's services got lower satisfaction from them. Therefore, the researchers suggested activities on how to serve the students better.

INTRODUCTION

Higher Education Institutions need collaboration in giving quality education to the students. Aside from the quality of instruction, support services are also needed to make the college education of the students meaningful. Tamulienė (2014), in her study about college students' adjustment, found out that college students need psychological counselling as well as accommodation services. They need somebody to talk to for them to survive college education. Aside from counselling, they need also services from other support services. Cadosales and Ejercito (2009) claim that activities from the support offices enrich the academic life of the students.

It is very important to continue to improve the services to the students. To do this, there is a need for evaluation of the existing student services that the institution offers. Improving these services can stimulate the different aspects of the development of a student, such as personal, social, cultural, and cognitive (Ciobanu, 2013). Students can perform well in their academic, for example, if they are provided with good services. They feel at home as they are being served well.

According to Lugosi (2018), the foodservice, for example, is something that enhances the students' university experiences. It will create memories to be cherished for as they stay in the college or university that they are studying.

It is the role of the school to serve the students in the best way they have to be served. Thus, it is very important to ask them as the clientele of the school about the services they have availed to improve them for the benefit of the future clientele of the school. Thus the main purpose of this study is to assess the current students' services of the school utilizing the graduating students as they have experienced for a longer period the services included in this study.

OBJECTIVES OF THE STUDY

This study is purposively done to evaluate the current practices of students' services in Saint Columban College, Pagadian City during the Academic Year 2018 – 2019. The researchers asked the Student-interns of the first semester of the Academic Year 2018 – 2019 before the start of one of their review classes to rate the services listed in the questionnaire. Specifically, it assessed the following service areas: Admissions, Student Orientation, Guidance Program and Services, Campus Ministry, Co-curricular Programs and Services, Alumni, and Registrar's Services. After assessing them, this study suggested ways on how to continuously improve its services to the students as primary clienteles of the academic institution.

METHODOLOGY

Research Design

The study made use of quantitative research design. In particular, this employed a descriptive-cross sectional research design as it presented the status of student's services programs based on the rating of the school's clienteles. The data of this study served as the baseline information on how to further improve these services in the future.

Research Site

This research was conducted in one of the private sectarian colleges in Western Mindanao. This institution is run by Diocesan clergy. This is composed of three college departments namely, College of Business Education (CBE), College of Teacher Education Arts and Sciences (CTEAS) and College of Computer Studies (CCS).

Respondents

The participants of this study are the 42 graduating students of the College of Teacher Education, Arts and Sciences (CTEAS) during the first semester of the Academic Year 2018-2019. Before they were asked to give their rating to the statements in the tool, the researcher sought their permission to participate in the study. They then gave their ratings on the different areas of student services after signing the informed consent.

Instrumentation

The researcher used a questionnaire adopted from Cadosales and Ejercito (2009) in their study on student services. This was in the form of a 5-point rating scale in which the respondents can choose from not needed, missing but needed, limited, satisfactory, or excellent. This was fielded to the research participants in one of their review sessions. After gathering the data, the researchers tallied the responses of the research participants. The weighted mean was computed to determine the overall rating of the participants.

Data Gathering Procedure

The researcher first asked the permission of the school president about the conduct of the study. After seeking permission, he then met the CTEAS Dean and asked for his permission of the conduct of the study. The researcher then met the respondents in one of their review classes, and he explained to them the purpose of the study. He then asked them to sign the informed consent and then fielded the questionnaires to them.

Ethical Considerations

The researcher ensured that the participation of this study is voluntary. The respondents were given a chance to affirm or deny the invitation to participate in this study. They were given the respondent's consent form for them to have the knowledge on the intention of the study and for them to be given a chance whether to participate or not in this study. The researcher ensured that there was no harm that this research might contribute to them. This study is done in goodwill. The researcher did not accommodate partiality in this study.

Data Analysis/Treatment

In analyzing the data, the researcher tallied their responses and computed for the Mean to obtain the summative responses of the respondents. He then also computed for the standard deviation to determine how varied the responses are. The results are then presented in tables to show the average per item in the subject areas.

RESULTS AND DISCUSSION

This section of the study presents and discusses the findings of the study. It describes the assessment of the graduating Teacher Education students of the First Semester Academic Year 2018 – 2019. Eight areas were evaluated in this study namely: Admissions, Student Orientation, Guidance Program and Services, Campus Ministry, Student Assistance Program, Co-curricular Programs and Activities, Alumni, and Registrar's vServices.

Admissions

The programs on admission involve the selection of students. Based on PAASCU standards, the admissions programs of a college should have a proper selection of students. The policies and practices of admissions should reflect the objectives of the institution in general. Thus, there would be established admission criteria to be followed. This to ensure that students will have a greater chance of succeeding in the courses that they have chosen.

As to the Admissions, the overall Mean is 4.29, interpreted as excellent. The item that got the highest Mean is on the admission program is headed by an officer or director of admissions. Meanwhile, the item that got the lowest Mean is regarding the statements of admission procedures that are distributed early to feeder schools that got the Mean of 4.07, interpreted as satisfactory.

Student Orientation

This program introduces to the students what is the school all about. It elaborates them of their privileges and responsibilities. In so far as PAASU is concerned, new students should be oriented with the school policies and others as well as old students should be reoriented. This is also to orient them on the principles and values of the school. This is done a few days before the start of the regular classes. To ensure improvement, this program should be reviewed and evaluated periodically by the school's stakeholders. The indicators of the orientation program are shown in Table 2.

For Student Orientation, it gathered the overall Mean of 4.27, which is interpreted as Excellent. The item that got the highest Mean is about the aim of the orientation program that focuses on the adjustment to college life, which has a Mean of 4.54, interpreted as excellent. Nevertheless, the item that got the lowest Mean is on the orientation is effected through brochures, which got the Mean of 3.90, interpreted as satisfactory.

Co-Curricular Programs and Activities

In aiming for the holistic development of students, the school should also provide with different yet suitable co-curricular activities that will contribute to student development of talents and potentials. These activities should be organized and must be supervised by a competent staff.

Table 7 displays the students' ratings on co-curricular programs and activities.

For Co-Curricular activities, it gathered an overall mean of 4.32 interpreted as excellent. The item that got the highest mean is about "The school's policy for Campus organizations and co-curricular activities are clear and generally accepted by the students" that has 4.41 mean, interpreted as excellent. Meanwhile, the item "The school provides functional leadership training designed to tap the students' talents and develop them maximally" got the lowest mean of 4.20 interpreted as satisfactory. It is important that the students accept what the school wants for them to be interested in taking part of the co-curricular activities. According to Gruber, Fub, Voss, & Gläser-Zikuda, (2010), the satisfaction of the students about the services that the school gives them lies in the stable person-environment relationship. This will make them feel at home as they stay in school.

Alumni

The school should not only influence her students' bit also extend it to the alumni. The alumni should be formally organized and there should be a designated person responsible for communicating them. The objectives of the alumni association should be clear and widely disseminated. Thus, the programs should have provisions on constantly contacting and reaching out to the graduates of the school. Table 8 shows the indicators of alumni.

As to the alumni, it gathered an overall mean of 4.26 interpreted as excellent. The item "A list of Alumni involved in various meritorious projects or programs is kept up-to-date and disseminated to the school on different levels" got the highest mean of 4.29 interpreted as excellent. Summary of Student Services Programs

The summary of the students' rating on the different student services is shown in table 10.

The data revealed that the services of the Campus Ministry are very much appreciated by the students' raters. They rated Campus Ministry as excellent. It is being followed by the services regarding Admissions, Student Orientation, Co-Curricular Programs and services, and Alumni that also have excellent ratings.

However, they have only satisfactory ratings to the Registrar's Services, Student Assistance Program, and Guidance Program and Services.

It is relevant to offer good services to the students as the clienteles of the school. As DeShields Jr, Kara, & Kaynak (2005) say, students who have good or positive college experiences are more likely to be satisfied than those who have negative experiences. Thus, as much as possible, the institution or college must exert an effort on giving positive experiences to the students. The study also of Hasan, Ilias, Rahman, & Razak (2009) conveyed that there is a significant and positive relationship between tangibility, assurance, reliability, responsiveness, and empathy and overall service quality to students' satisfaction.

CONCLUSIONS

In evaluating the services offered to the students, the administrators are given the status of the services offered to the primary clients, the students. There were positive feedbacks from the clients from the services about to Admissions, Student Orientation, Campus Ministry, Co-curricular activities, and Alumni. However, there were also services that the school needs to improve such that on Guidance Program and services, Student Assistance Program, and Registrar's services. These need to be addressed to provide students with a functional student services program for holistic development
