

My 2020

Best Reviewer of the March-April 2020 Issue- Murat AKAND

Murat AKAND

Dr. Murat Akand is a full-time associate professor at Selcuk University, School of Medicine, Department of Urology, Konya, Turkiye since 2016. He has worked as assistant professor at the same institution between July 2011 and April 2016. He has been certified both by the European Board of Urology and Turkish Board of Urology. His main interests are urological oncology (especially bladder cancer) and urolithiasis. He has worked as principal investigator in two nationally funded projects in which a novel technique has been developed for renal access during percutaneous nephrolithotomy.

Currently he is the principal investigator of a nationally funded project for development of a robotic arm to be used in percutaneous nephrolithotomy. He is also working as a co-investigator in a prospective project led by University Hospitals Leuven, Department of Urology, Leuven, Belgium for identification of novel biomarkers for better stratification of intermediate- and high-risk non-muscle-invasive bladder cancer patients. He has published more than fifty papers in international peer-reviewed journals. He has been performing peer reviews for more than fifteen journals, including European Urology, European Urology Focus, European Urology Oncology, World Journal of Urology, Journal of Endourology, Urology, and Urology Journal. “I was very honored when I was first invited to review a manuscript that has been submitted to Urology Journal. After this first invitation, I have reviewed several papers in which I did my best as a reviewer during evaluating the articles for publishing in Urology Journal in order to maintain the high quality of this journal. Sound peer-review is one of the most important processes for assuring publication of high-quality scientific research. The Editorial Team and the electronic portal for reviewing of Urology Journal were very helpful during this important process.”